FOSTER THE NEXT GENERATION OF SPACE LEADERS

ABOUT THE WASHINGTON SPACE BUSINESS ROUNDTABLE:

The Washington Space Business Roundtable (WSBR) is a leadership forum for the promotion of commercial space business and education in the National Capital area. As a non-profit, membership-based group, WSBR supports the open exchange of ideas and information among a broad range of executives, government policy makers, lawyers, insurers, analysts, academics and thought leaders involved in the business of space in the metropolitan Washington region.

As a charitable, 501(C)(3) organization, the Washington Space Business Roundtable strives to support space-related interests and develop opportunities for young people in the Washington Metropolitan area. The organization funds activities to support the education of young students relating to space and space-related technology with the goal of stimulating interest in careers in space-related fields.

PROGRAMS OFFERED:

Space Camp Scholarships: WSBR will provide funding for a select number of Washington, DC-area middle school teachers and students to attend the week-long Space Camp programs near NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Alabama. Transportation, lodging and food costs are all included in the support.

Field-Trip Sponsorships for classes: WSBR will provide support for middle school space and science-related field trips (for example, to the National Air and Space Museum or NASA Headquarters); in doing so, WSBR will cover field trip costs such as transportation (e.g., bus or Metro), enrichment activities (e.g., IMAX tickets and educational materials) and other costs related to enabling an exciting and compelling experience for middle school students. WSBR will fund up to $1000 per class to cover the costs of the field trips.

HOW TO APPLY:

If your school is interested in obtaining support from WSBR for the above activities, please do the following:
